History goes up in flames

New Westminster. Blaze destroys heritage building, a dozen businesses

EMILY JACKSON
emily.jackson@metronews.ca

A massive fire ravaged a historic block of New Westminster early Thursday morning, destroying about a dozen businesses and potentially damaging dozens more.

The E.L. Lewis heritage building at 634 Columbia St., home to eight retail and three office tenants including a bridal shop, a Vietnamese restaurant and B.C. Acorn, collapsed in the blaze that began around 3:40 a.m.

It was an emotional day for building co-owner Terry Brine, whose family business Copp's Shoes occupied the building since 1925 before new tenants moved in earlier in 2013.

"Does it ever hit you hard," Brine told reporters at the scene. "The (new tenants) have done a nice job renovating and, wow, it's all gone."

It's not yet clear what caused the blaze, but propane tanks left atop the building by re-roofing crews sparked explosions that made the fire difficult to control, according to the fire department. No one appears to have been hurt in the blaze.

More than 40 firefighters from New Westminster, Burnaby and Delta continued working well into the afternoon to douse the smoldering remains of the two-storey brick and wood frame built in 1904.

Thick smoke filled the air for blocks surrounding the heritage street, known for its numerous bridal shops. Passersby were concerned for brides-to-be whose dresses may have gone up in smoke.

"I got my wedding dress at Golden Brides, the bridal shop engulfed by fire this morning. What if it had happened a month ago?" @glendaochka posted on Twitter.

As neighbours snapped photos from behind the police tape, nearby business owners gathered to wait for news on the damage.

"It's very surreal," said Localo Living owner Ana Matovinovic, who wasn't allowed anywhere near her Front Street shop that opened eight months ago.

Based on her location, it seemed almost inevitable that her vintage shop would have smoke and water damage just as her business was "getting in its groove."

"I just want to get down there and see what the extent of the damage is. I'm very worried," she said.

City staff, most donning masks to block the smoke, were on scene to figure out how quickly they could get electricity back to neighbouring businesses.

Mayor Wayne Wright estimated the fire affected more than 30 or 40 businesses. He has called a meeting Friday to talk next steps for the iconic street.

"It is a great loss," Wright said, but the city must look at future opportunities. "The building is something you can't replace."

Trailer park power outage pushes man to his limits

'Heartbreaking' conditions. Resident in state of depression after living without power for nearly four weeks; owner lists property as vacant land for sale

KATE WEBB
kate.webb@metronews.ca

It's been nearly four weeks since a contractor accidentally knocked out power to a Surrey trailer park and longtime resident Stephen Chalmers says every day is more miserable than the last.

Chalmers, who was pictured on Metro's front page when we broke the story last Thursday, says trying to survive the chilly fall nights in his leaky 1989 trailer has pushed him from a fragile state of mental health into a deep depression.

"I phoned my sister yesterday and I told my sister that I didn't know if I could continue," he said Wednesday, choking on tears. "My family won't quit, but I'm ready to quit. I don't have money. I don't have a roof or a place because of this hunk of junk."

Surrey-Green Timbers NDP MLA Sue Hammell toured the Beladean Motel and Trailer Park at 8205 King George Blvd. twice this week and said the conditions are heartbreaking.

Not only is the power out and the generator service unreliable, but someone has cut the phone lines and a water pipe.

"The pipe that delivered their water was cut, and it did not appear to be cut by the excavation, it appeared to be cut by other people — scroungers probably trying to get metal or cable," Hammell said.

"(The tenants) fixed the water themselves. They reattached the hose and got the water back, but what is not back is the cable or the phone."

A WorkSafe BC investigation found that the owner, K.B. Properties, failed to hire a health-and-safety coordinator for the demolition of the motel, resulting in unsafe asbestos removal as well as the power outage.

Jas Rehal, the city's manager of bylaw enforcement, said the city has had to issue three orders to the owner to restore power after the company brought in insufficient generators and gas.

As of Thursday the property was listed online as vacant land for sale for $3.8 million, despite the fact that several people still live there.

Vancouver Eviction Services President Stephano Muzzatti, who was hired by K.B. Properties to evict some of the residents, told Metro he was "irate" when he learned of the state of the park.

On Thursday, he threatened to resign unless the owners provide an industrial generator, as well as a security guard to stop the looters and vandals that torment the tenants day and night.

Reached by phone on Thursday, Roshan Arora, who is the property owner's brother and representative, said he was out shopping for an industrial generator as requested.

That is no comfort to Chalmers, who is on disability because of various mental-health issues and is a recovering crack addict, clean for five years.

His one comfort, his dog, Spaghetti, is staying with a friend because he doesn't want her to drink the water that leaks from his ceiling.

"I don't have a way to live a normal life at this point in time. I've done everything I can for myself to get better and it makes me feel like I'm an inconsequential piece of garbage that nobody wants to help, and I don't understand that," he said.

"I just want a trailer that I can park on a place and pay my rent and have my little dog so I've got somebody to love."

Desperate for help

Finding a new home

Former resident Marilyn Chase is desperate to help her brother, Stephen Chalmers, get out of the trailer park. She has started a crowdfunding campaign on Vancouver-based website FundRazr with Metro's assistance.

Most trailer parks won't accept him as a tenant because his dilapidated 1989 trailer is too old and lacks proper certifications, so she is trying to raise $5,000 to get him a used but newer trailer.

Right-to-die advocates soldier on

Setbacks in B.C. After appeals court reverses assisted-suicide ruling, battle may go to the top

MATT KIELTYKA
matt.kieltyka@metronews.ca

The debate over doctor-assisted suicide seems destined once more for the Supreme Court of Canada after advocates suffered a setback Thursday.

B.C.'s Court of Appeal has reversed a lower-court ruling that said Canada's assisted-suicide ban violated the Charter rights of the gravely ill.

Two of the three judges ruled that while the law has evolved in the last two decades, it hasn't changed enough to undermine the 1993 Supreme Court decision.

B.C. Civil Liberties Association (BCCLA) lawyer Grace Pastine stood with plaintiffs Lee Carter and Hollis Johnson — whose terminally ill mother, Kay Carter, fought for the right to die in Canada before obtaining an assisted-suicide in Switzerland in 2010 — outside the Vancouver courthouse Thursday morning.

"What this means is that ... seriously and incurably ill individuals will continue to suffer against their wishes at the end of life," said Pastine. "We're going to continue this fight."

Supporters argue the federal government, which appealed the original B.C. Supreme Court decision, "has no place at the bedside" of terminally ill patients — but not everyone agrees.

Canadians with Disabilities applauded the ruling, saying an assisted-suicide system would be fraught with "grave risks."

As the BCCLA held their press conference, members of the Euthanasia Prevention Coalition of B.C. held up pickets expressing their opposition.

The group's chair, Will Johnston, worries strict guidelines would not prevent abuse of the system. "It seems clear that government does have a role in protecting the vulnerable," he said. "Fortunately, the appeal court recognized this."

UBC. Archeologists step into the Stone Age

They're the new kids on the Stone Age block.

The University of British Columbia says its archeologists have helped uncover the last known group of hunter-gatherers in Central Europe.

According to a study published in the Science Express Journal, a team of international researchers (including UBC researchers using rare isotope analysis) studied the bones and teeth of human specimens and were surprised to learn they belong to a group of hunter-gatherers who retained their way of life 2,000 years longer than previously thought.

"Until now, researchers believed that hunter-gatherer cultures disappeared in Central Europe almost immediately after farming began around 5,000 B.C.," said UBC researcher Olaf Nehlich in a press release. "These new findings show that hunter-gatherers continued to exist alongside farming societies for a much longer period of time."

Const. Stephen Todd

B.C. cop to go before public hearing

A Vancouver Police officer accused of professional misconduct will be the subject of a public hearing.

The Office of the Police Complaint Commissioner says allegations against Const. Stephen Todd include corrupt practice, deceit, neglect of duty, improper disclosure of information and discreditable conduct. The office says it received information about the allegations from the Vancouver Police Department in March 2011.

An investigation resulted in the matter being adjudicated through the police disciplinary process, which determined misconduct had been proven regarding some of the allegations and dismissal was proposed as one of the measures that should be taken.

Feds should provide more marine-spill resources: Study

Environment. Province pushing Ottawa to ensure world-class regulations before allowing heavy oil pipelines in B.C.

B.C.'s marine oil spill response team practices an emergency clean up in Howe Sound. JENNIFER GAUTHIER/METRO FILE

The British Columbia government says a study it commissioned to assess preparedness in case of a major marine spill concludes federal resources are needed to protect the West Coast.

The province says it will push Ottawa for changes to ensure world-class regulations are in place before considering heavy oil pipelines in B.C.

That's one of the five conditions the province has stated must be met before it considers such projects.

A federal joint environmental review panel is currently considering the proposed $6-billion Northern Gateway pipeline project estimated to carry 550,000 barrels of heavy oil a day from Alberta to a tanker port in Kitimat, B.C., for shipment to Asia.

Critics and First Nations fear marine spills from the oil-carrying tankers plying West Coast waters.

Last March, Natural Resources Minister Joe Oliver announced a series of measures to improve oil tanker safety off Canadian coasts, including administrative penalties for polluters and mandatory marine response plans for oil terminal operators.

Ezar Khan. Police searching for SUV in Surrey murder

Homicide detectives are searching for a dark SUV suspected to be involved in a Surrey murder case.

The 2007-2012 Acura RDX with chrome door handles was seen driving with male occupants around the area of Joe Brown Park on the night and morning that Surrey resident Ezar "Ace" Khan, 30, was murdered, according to a statement from the Integrated Homicide Investigation Team.

Khan's body was found in the park at 123rd Street and New McLellan Road on Sept. 18. He was last seen alive on Sept. 17 around 10 p.m.

Investigators have not yet confirmed the motive for the killing but believe it is linked to the drug trade.

Khan has been "battling drug addiction for many years," according to police.

Police do not believe the attack is gang related.

Man who raped 11-year-old given 42 months in jail

A 28-year-old Vernon man has been sentenced to 42 months in prison for online and other sex crimes with young girls.

The Crown and defence had called for a two-year sentence, plus probation for Connor Dee. He pleaded guilty to 13 charges, including extortion and possession of child porn involving five Okanagan girls between 11 and 17 years old. One victim, who was 11, was lured to a Kelowna park where Dee raped her and took pictures.

The sentence means Dee will serve two years in prison after 18 months credit for time served, plus three years probation. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ex-soldier shot by RCMP asked for help in letter to prison psychiatrist

Apology. 'Fact is, I cannot fully explain my state of mind when I made the decision to click send': Greg Matters

Greg Matters was shot by RCMP near Prince George in September 2012.
THE CANADIAN PRESS

More than a year before he was fatally shot in a standoff with RCMP on his rural British Columbia farm, Greg Matters sent a handwritten note to a court-appointed psychiatrist asking for help.

Dr. David Morgan testified at a coroner's inquest into Matters' death on Thursday that he met the former soldier and peacekeeper in the Prince George Correctional Centre to conduct a clinical risk assessment in December 2010.

Matters was nearing the end of a 56-day incarceration after he was refused bail following a conviction for sending a threatening email to the head of the RCMP Public Complaints Commission.

"Thank you for not thinking that I am a serial killer," the 40-year-old former soldier wrote in the lengthy letter, parts of which were read out in court by a lawyer for the Matters family.

"Fact is, I cannot fully explain my state of mind when I made the decision to click send. I've been told it's one thing to write bad thoughts, it's another to send them. Could it have been a brief ... moment that caused me to click? I don't know.

"I am sorry for the alarming, disturbing words I sent, and (the) worry those words may have caused," Matters wrote, adding that he'd sent an apology to the commission through his lawyer.

The conviction was one of a number of run-ins that Matters had with RCMP, beginning in New Brunswick, where he was based at CFB Gagetown. Matters said a dispute erupted with a local force member who was the ex-boyfriend of his best friend's wife.

Things escalated until, according to Matters, RCMP officers broke into his home one night at gunpoint on a purported "wellness check" because he hadn't responded to earlier calls. He filed a complaint about the incident to the RCMP watchdog, which found the complaint was not substantiated.

After leaving the military with an honourable discharge in 2009 and returning to Prince George, Matters was charged and later acquitted of assaulting his brother Trevor and investigated for sending threatening emails to his former therapist in New Brunswick.

The coroner's jury has heard that the threats issued in emails ranged from shooting to cutting a person's throat.

One of the towering plant sculptures that covered the grounds of the Montreal Botanical Gardens is seen this past August. GREEN/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

La Belle Province lumped in with Syria, North Korea

Ruling Quebec out?
National Geographic excluding Quebecers from photo contest due to the province's strict rules

Quebecers might feel like their vision is fuzzy these days when they read that their province has been lumped in with North Korea, Syria and Sudan on a list of ineligible sites for a National Geographic photo contest.

The fine print for the magazine's "Explore our Changing World" contest has caused something of an online stir this week in La Belle Province.

It's not the first time a contest has avoided the province because of its strict rules. So now Quebec has found itself on a contest blacklist that includes Cuba, Iran, North Korea, Sudan and Syria, as well as a pair of U.S. states: New Jersey and Vermont.

The provincial government isn't thrilled.

"It's a bit troubling," said Joyce Tremblay, a spokeswoman for the provincial commission that oversees contests.

It's not a new phenomenon. Some contest-makers have avoided Quebec over the years because of strict rules governing how those competitions are run in the province. Given those rules and the potential costs associated, some sponsors aren't willing to deal with Quebec, despite the fact it remains the country's second most populous province.

But Tremblay said the decision to leave Quebecers out of the contest was misguided.

She said that since National Geographic is running a photography contest — and not a contest with cash prizes — the media organization didn't face the same rules and would not have had to pay any fees.

"This contest wasn't subject to our rules," Tremblay said.

"Sadly, they decided to exclude Quebec without checking the facts because they were afraid they'd have to pay."

Quebec is the only jurisdiction in Canada to have such rules.

Since getting lumped in with places like North Korea and Syria isn't great for the province's reputation, Tremblay said she hopes companies take the time to call and get the right information.

"They don't even take two minutes to call and sometimes the amounts (to pay) are quite minimal," Tremblay said.

The prestigious magazine's contest runs for three weeks this month and asks photographers to document change.

The prizes include getting a photo published in the magazine as well as a trip to New Mexico to take part in a photography seminar.

Toronto man freed from death row back in Canada

The Department of Foreign Affairs says an Iranian-Canadian man who was on death row in Tehran has returned to Canada.

Hamid Ghassemi-Shall had been in an Iranian prison since he was arrested in 2008 and charged with espionage until he was freed last month.

Ghassemi-Shall, who emigrated from Iran after that country's 1979 revolution, was sentenced to death in 2009.

Police crack down on pipeline protest march

Police moved to block a few dozen protesters from marching in Montreal near the site of hearings for a pipeline project.

The protesters oppose the proposal by Enbridge to reverse the flow of a pipeline to send oilsands crude eastward. The plan is being examined at hearings this week in Montreal by the National Energy Board.

Montreal police declared the protest illegal. After tolerating the march for several blocks, they stepped in to stop it. Protesters were detained, shoved aside or penned up in a kettle. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hunter bags huge moose – but is it the biggest?

A hunter may have bagged the biggest bull moose to ever wander the wilds of the Yukon.

Heinz Naef says he brought down an Alaska-Yukon bull moose with a preliminary antler measurement of about 177 centimetres long with an antler score of 262, which measures length, width and size of the antlers and the palms.

Officials from the U.S.-based ranking system Boone and Crockett will travel to Dawson City in a few weeks to officially measure the moose. THE CANADIAN PRESS/CKRW

Munro 'surprised' and delighted by Nobel win

'Quite wonderful.' Reclusive 82-year-old short-story writer only the 13th woman to win the literature prize

Book lovers around the globe celebrated Alice Munro's spare, elegant prose on Thursday when the Ontario-born author won the Nobel Prize for literature, but the reclusive short-story writer was typically succinct and humble in her reaction to the honour, calling it "quite wonderful."

"At this moment I can't believe it. It's really very wonderful," Munro said just moments after the announcement was made in Stockholm.

"I knew I was in the running, yes, but I never thought I would win." She added that she was delighted and "just terribly surprised."

In making the announcement, the Swedish Academy lauded the 82-year-old as a "master of the contemporary short story." Munro becomes the 110th Nobel laureate in literature and only the 13th woman to receive the distinction.

Reaction to those who have been touched by her work was swift and rapturous.

Ontario Premier Kathleen Wynne cited Munro's Lives of Girls and Women as a favourite, adding she is "part of a lucky population who has been forever changed by (Munro's) unparalleled ability to articulate the complexity and heartbreaks of everyday life." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Obese prisoner appeals for release

Tarek El-Sawah is in terrible shape after 11 years as a prisoner at Guantanamo Bay, a fact even the U.S. military does not dispute.

During his time in captivity, the weight of the 55-year-old Egyptian has nearly doubled, reaching more than 420 pounds at one point, and his health has deteriorated as a result, both his lawyers and government officials concede. President wins landslide before winning landslide

Something funny happened the day before Azerbaijan's presidential election: The election commission announced the winner. On Tuesday, the smartphone app of the Central Election Commission released the results of Wednesday's vote, showing President Ilham Aliyev winning 73 per cent of the vote.

The gaffe was said to have happened when a software developer released the figures as a "test."

In the real results Aliyev is said to have won by 85 per cent. Monitors from Europe called the vote flawed, noting disproportionate coverage of the president, limitations on expression and ballot box stuffing. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Raid on PM underscores lawlessness in Libya

Libyan PM Ali Zidan, left, after being rescued Thursday. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Brazen seizure. Prime Minister Ali Zidan is safe after being rescued; he was abducted by gunmen from his hotel suite

The abduction was brief but still audacious: Gunmen from one of Libya's many militias stormed a hotel where the prime minister has a residence and held him for several hours Thursday — apparently in retaliation for his government's alleged collusion with the U.S. in a raid last weekend that captured an al-Qaida suspect.

The brazen seizure of Prime Minister Ali Zidan heightened the alarm over the power of unruly militias that virtually hold the weak central government hostage. Many of the militias include Islamic militants and have ideologies similar to al-Qaida's.

The armed bands regularly use violence to intimidate officials to sway policies, gunning down security officials and kidnapping their relatives.

At the same time, the state relies on militias to act as security forces, since the police and military remain in disarray after dictator Moammar Gadhafi was overthrown and killed in 2011. It took other militias to rescue Ali Zidan by storming the site. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Militias control much

The kidnapping is an example of the lawlessness gripping Libya, experts say.

- The weak central government is virtually hostage to multiple, independent-minded militias — many of them made up of Islamic militants — that serve as security forces and hold sway across the country.
- The armed bands regularly use violence.

Bonnie O'Sullivan:
Providing sensitivity

STEPHANIE ORFORD
For Metro

"Warm," "friendly" and "understated" are all words Jude Morrison, the director of residential services and assisted living for Haro Park Centre, a seniors' housing and care facility, uses to describe Bonnie O'Sullivan.

"But holy Dinah is she an advocate."

While O'Sullivan is the community developer for the Generations program at QMUNITY, a queer resource centre in Vancouver, she is also a committed champion of human rights.

O'Sullivan started supporting marginalized lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgendered or queer (LGBTQ) individuals as a volunteer queer liaison while she was studying political science at Capilano College. In her first job at a non-profit, O'Sullivan worked with seniors, which is where she found her passion.

"When people see seniors they kind of forget that they're not just a cute little old person," O'Sullivan said. "They're pioneers, they're advocates. They're people who shaped and changed the world that we grew up in."

Identifying as LGBTQ can add yet another layer of isolation for seniors, O'Sullivan said.

In her day job, she advocates for LGBTQ seniors in the health-care system, helps educate seniors' service providers, and organizes events, such as a recent dance social in Vancouver's West End. That's not to mention numerous extra hours of unpaid support she provides, volunteering at the Queer Film Festival, attending conferences on health-care issues for LGBTQ seniors, and providing whatever support seniors in her community need — on or off the clock.

Morrison, who works alongside O'Sullivan, said O'Sullivan brings an uncommon depth to her cause, giving it her all.

"She has a real sensitivity to the individual," Morrison said, adding that O'Sullivan often reaches out to help members of her community.

"When we'd go to committee meetings, she'd make sure people had a ride," Morrison said. "She's sensitive to those little details that are so important.

"You look at her and you think here's this young lovely person, but underneath all of that is this very mature, very eloquent, very critical thinking individual."

O'Sullivan draws inspiration from the people in her community. She describes one woman in her late 60s, who is transitioning to female from male, as "absolutely extraordinary."

"In the summer we held a shindig, and she came with full-on makeup and a dress," said O'Sullivan, who loves seeing that confidence blossom. "It's the first time she's been able to come out and feel safe."

Bonnie O'Sullivan works at QMUNITY in Vancouver. CONTRIBUTED

Affable Aussie transplant laughs off misdirected online ire during outage

CEO of @postschedule - Team scheduling done right. An Aussie living in Brooklyn.
Brooklyn, NY · floatschedule.com

Glenn Rogers of Brooklyn, N.Y., has the @rogers handle on Twitter. He often gets irate tweets meant for @RogersHelps. TWITTER

When Glenn Rogers' cellphone started vibrating uncontrollably Wednesday, he knew the cause immediately.

"Nothing like another Rogers outage to liven up my feed," he tweeted.

Glenn is the proud owner of the @rogers handle on Twitter. On most days, the Brooklyn resident receives only 100 or so messages from confused Rogers Communications customers, but during Wednesday's three-hour network outage, his Twitter feed exploded.

"It's almost instantaneous," the human Rogers said. "The moment people lose their Internet or their phone, they take to Twitter to voice their rage."

Canadian Rogers customers bombarded Glenn with misplaced abuse, much of it unfit for print. However, in between all the swearing and name-calling, plenty of others jumped to his defence.

Toronto's Real Jerk Restaurant even offered him a free meal if he ever came to the city.

"The people who see the situation for what it is really get a kick out of it," he said. "And it's great to see people defending me without even knowing me."

Wanna spy? That'll cost you ... in data

There's another reason to fret over your Internet plan's data cap — at least for consumers who are interested in the new Dropcam Pro, a camera that beams live video from your home onto the Internet and offers a PVR-like experience to watch it through a website or mobile app.

Think of it as an Apple-esque nanny cam. It's a slick, easy-to-use device that lets parents keep an eye on their kids or pets while at work and functions as a security camera that can automatically store video online. It isn't terribly expensive for how well it works. But there's a catch. It may gulp through more than 65 gigabytes of data a month if left running 24/7. THE CANADIAN PRESS

The newest version of the camera, which was made available in Canada for the first time on Thursday via Dropcam.com and Amazon.ca, may gulp through more than 65 gigabytes of data a month if left running 24/7.

Rogers: Software problem behind network failure

Rogers Communications says it has fixed a network software problem that temporarily shut down text and phone service to about two-thirds of its 10 million cellphone customers.

SECOND BIG BANG THEORY CONFIRMED

THE METRO LIST

Mike Benhaim
metronews.ca

1 C'est la vie. Claire Le Bel, mayoral candidate of Laval, the city just north of Montreal, is requesting police protection after her campaign manager was assaulted. The attack followed the release of recorded conversations with her former boss and long-time mayor, Gilles Vaillancourt. Vaillancourt is currently facing criminal charges for "gangsterism," or as it's called in Montreal, "politics."

2 Sexy thangs. Esquire magazine named Scarlett Johansson the sexiest woman alive for the second time. While many of us agree that she is sexy, the title of "sexiest" is very subjective. A tip to men choosing to engage in public controversy, the correct answer should invariably be (insert name of wife or girlfriend here).

3 Splitsville, U.S.A. Bruce and Kris Jenner have officially separated. With no pre-nuptial agreement in place, the enterprising Kardashian baby-mama is likely to pack a huge financial punch. My advice to the Olympian: Better eat your Wheaties before the milk runs out. Divorce proceedings can be seen on Fox.

4 Till you drop. A study released by the National Academy of Sciences this week uncovered the mystery of marsupial male deaths after mating. Apparently the female only accepts male suitors once a year for the sole purpose of reproduction. This encourages competition in males who save their sperm and energy for something of a "big bang marathon," which lasts for 12 to 14 hours and repeats several times until they eventually die of stress. They needed a study for this?

5 Hockey Night in Canada. Note to women: Attempting unscheduled discussions expecting more than a monosyllabic response from spouses during NHL games is considered interference and will result in a penalty. Note to husbands: Invoking said penalty may result in changes to the mating schedule (see number four).

6 Say what? A Nobel Prize in physics was awarded to Peter Higgs and François Englert for discovering the Higgs boson, a.k.a. "the God particle," which confers mass to elementary particles. This is controversial because several physicists experienced simultaneous breakthroughs. Some scientists were upset and considered taking it before the courts until their lawyers explained that no one would understand what the heck they were talking about.

7 In the mix. Red Bull's Thre3style National DJ Finals were held last Sunday at Cowboy's Dance Hall in Calgary. The crowd was treated to some funktastic sets by eight of Canada's finest. Quebec's Adam (Doubleyou) White won the honour of representing Canada at the world finals, which this year will be held in clubs across Toronto from Nov. 4 to 9. Book your spot at redbull.ca/3styletickets.

8 This week in music. On Oct. 9, 1975, Sean Lennon, the only child of John and Yoko, was born, prompting the former Beatle toward a musical hiatus in favour of being a full-time father and husband. Sean went on to become a singer, songwriter, musician and actor. Oh, also born on Oct. 9 ... John Lennon.

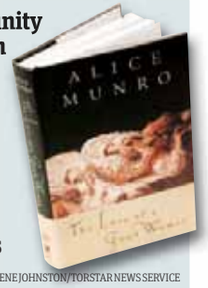
Thursday gave us all an opportunity to puff with patriotic pride when it was announced that national treasure Alice Munro had won the 2013 Nobel Prize for literature. So whether you want to read Munro's work for the first time, or are interested in checking out some other short story writers, here's a few good places to start.



RENE JOHNSTON/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

The New Yorker:

Let's start with the master herself. The New Yorker is one of Alice Munro's unofficial homes, and the archive on their website is a treasure trove of her work that reaches back through the years. Many of them are locked behind a subscriber paywall, but it'll be a long time before you run out of free content. (newyorker.com)

East of the Web:

Feel free to pluck a story out of the thousands available from professional and amateur in whichever genre you choose — provided your tastes aren't hopelessly niche. The sci-fi collection is particularly robust. (eastoftheweb.com)

Bibliofaction:

Another huge depository à la East of the Web, except buoyed by a strong and supportive community that we've heard can be quite helpful to aspiring short story authors ready to begin building their own case for a Nobel Prize. (bibliofaction.com)

@BVAssociation: The food better be outstanding to earn our silence and increased attention.

@BrianObie1: this is nothing more than a ploy to get people in and out quickly and make more $$$$

@chantalehoney: that sounds wonderful! My kids talk so much, I'd love a quiet meal!

@BlakeHusky: Finally, a restaurant I can take my mother-in-law to.

@serpentina66: ew. All you'd hear is smacking, slurping, chewing, and loud swallowing.

@Lalu31: I wouldn't. Soup slurping, forks scraping against plates, and general chewing sounds would be heightened in silence!Need convo

Synopsis

Based on the true story of Captain Richard Phillips (Tom Hanks) who took on a routine voyage around the Horn of Africa in April 2009 when his ship was attacked by Somali Pirates led by Muse (Barkhad Abdi). "Nobody gets hurt," Muse says. "It's just business." But business turns violent when it becomes clear the million-dollar payday Muse and company were expecting isn't going to pan out. As the situation escalates Phillips is taken aboard a life raft, kidnapped, bound for Somalia where he'll be held for ransom.

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Captain with a hook

Pitted against pirates. Tom Hanks puts forth a powerful performance in the spellbinding Captain Phillips

Richard: Mark, I don't think it's fair to charge audiences full price for screenings of Captain Phillips. While watching this I was reminded of the old Monster Trucks ads that bellowed, "You pay for the whole seat but you'll only need the edge!" Director Paul Greengrass is a master of action who does a great job of portraying the vastness of the ocean and the isolation of the ship and its crew. I was dangling off the front of my seat from about the 30 minute mark. You?

Mark: Yes, in fact I was so on edge I have a slice-mark across my butt. I was so grateful the movie doesn't waste a lot of time going into the backstories of the crew. The pirates arrive quickly and brutally. I was worried we'd have to endure a lot of bleeding heart nonsense about the pirates and their "point of view." But that is kept to a minimum and the bad guys get to be bad guys and Tom Hanks, once again, can be a saint among men.

RC: I thought Hanks was terrific here. He is saintly, but he's also heroic and stoic. I think it might have been easy to overplay this role but he keeps it subdued for the most part. (SPOILER ALERT) It's only in the film's final moments, when the ordeal is over, that Hanks really unloads with the kind of raw and shell shocked reaction that the Academy is going to love.

MB: The Academy may also love the Somali pirate captain, Barkhad Abdi, who goes toe to toe with Hanks through the whole movie. I haven't seen such a scary, haunting face since the days of German Expressionist cinema! The movie is riveting, but it isn't surprising. There's only one way this movie can end and it should be obvious halfway through. That having been said, I have no fingernails left.

RC: Abdi is great. This is an action movie and as written he is primarily a plot device to keep the action moving forward, but despite an underwritten part he brings some humanity to the villain role. His explanation for his way of life, that he is a victim of limited opportunity and not a bad man, helps place his actions in context.

MB: Greengrass has passed this way before, in United 93. But this is a lesser known story, so it's easier to tense up and enjoy it.

Paulson's petty role

12 Years a Slave. Actress says Mistress Epps is her most violent role to date and she doesn't plan on going that dark again

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Sarah Paulson is the petty, defensive Mistress Epps in 12 Years A Slave. CONTRIBUTED

Sarah Paulson goes to some impressively dark, violent places in director Steve McQueen's brutal and arresting 12 Years a Slave as Mistress Epps, the petty and defensive wife of Michael Fassbender's malicious plantation owner. And to think, "Michael Fassbender's wife" sounds like such an appealing job description.

This isn't what you imagined being married to Michael Fassbender would be like, is it?
It sure isn't. Every single person asked me when I told them. They were like, "What are you going to do?" And I told them, "I'm doing this movie 12 Years a Slave. I play Michael Fassbender's wife." And before I got to the part about what it's about, they were like, "Wait, wait, wait. Do you get to kiss him?" And I was like, "Ah … it's not that kind of movie, so unfortunately no." But from an acting standpoint it's everything I could've hoped for.

It's remarkable that even with this big of an ensemble you still get a chance to make your impact. What was your route into understanding your character?
I didn't want to judge her, even though I think she behaves despicably and does indefensible things, without question — and I'm not looking to justify her behaviour on her behalf. But in terms of an actor trying to find a way into something, I had to figure out the motivating factors, and what was motivating her behaviour was her terrible fear that she was about to lose her husband — or had lost her husband — along with the respect in her household, the opinion of her in the community, all of it. It's very embarrassing, and I think for someone like Mistress Epps, I don't think she is a deeply complicated person. I'm not saying she's dumb, but I don't think she is emotionally or psychologically savvy. So instead I think she just went the only way she knows how, which is in my mind kind of like the way an animal defends its turf.

Have you ever done anything onscreen as violent as what you do in this film?
No, never. Never. And I hope to never again, although I do feel that it was very important for the narrative that it be as strong as that, to really show what was endured. The brutality of it, to me, is absolutely important and imperative to the telling of this story. I just feel that without it, it would lose part of what feels so insanely authentic about the movie.

Action

Machete Kills

Director. Robert Rodriguez

Stars. Danny Trejo, Michelle Rodriguez

Be warned: if you're not already on board with the grindhouse resurgence, this movie is not for you. Machete is once again pulled into U.S./Mexico politics, this time by the president who's tasked him with stopping a bi-polar revolutionary who's got a missile pointed at the U.S. (the trigger is rigged to his heart beat). Buoyed by a bigger budget, Rodriguez goes all out in this sequel. But in the constant jumping around, he quickly loses the plot. Still there's enough blood shed and stunt casting to carry the film — Cuba Gooding Jr. is a particular surprise. IAN GORMELY

Drama

Romeo and Juliet

Director. Carlo Carlei

Stars. Hailee Steinfeld, Douglas Booth

Downton Abbey guru Julian Fellowes and director Carlo Calrei take a crack at Shakespeare's doomed teen lovers, and the results are barely worthy of a catty dismissal by the Dowager Countess. Somehow Fellowes — who gets credit for the screenplay here — manages to significantly shorten the play and still make this version feel unending. It's so bland, lifeless and uneccesary that you find yourself watching the kids pine and think, "Just die already so we can get out of here." Do yourself a favour and just rent Zeffirelli's instead. NED EHRBAR

Romance

Right Kind of Wrong

Director. Jeremiah S. Chechik

Stars. Ryan Kwanten, Catherine O'Hara

The Right Kind of Wrong has a kind of identity crisis. Not only does the Canadian rom-com cater to clichéd mainstream conventions but it distractingly works in foul (and mostly flat) gags involving testicles and incontinence in Paris. True Blood's Ryan Kwanten is appealing enough as a phobic, failed writer trying to inexplicably woo a newly-married woman but here's a tip to future filmmakers: If a mountainous setting upstages the cast, your film's in all kinds of trouble.
STEVE GOW

Documentary

Watermark

Directors. Jennifer Baichwal, Edward Burtynsky

In what may possibly be considered a sequel to her award-winning 2006 doc Manufactured Landscapes, Jennifer Baichwal (now teaming up with that film's shutterbug subject Edward Burtynsky) creates a stunningly beautiful study of water and humankind's dependence (or neglect) of it. For almost every majestic, carefully framed shot, there lies a horror beneath, but the filmmakers succeed by avoiding didacticism and instead skillfully shower the viewer with a cascade of contemplation.
STEVE GOW

Comedy

Haute Cuisine

Director. Christian Vincent

Stars. Catherine Frot

Hortense (Frot) was once the private chef of the President of France. Now, she prepares meals for a bunch of unruly scientists at a research base in Antarctica. So what caused the celebrated chef to move to a frozen food desert? That's never satisfactorily answered. Flashbacks of her time at the Élysée Palace detail power struggles, but all this seems outweighed by Hortense's love of preparing French cuisine. The film could do with a little more explanation and fewer close-ups of her (albeit mouth-watering) culinary creations. REGAN REID

The right kind of mom

"I've never played a perfect mother. They're well-meaning, but definitely not perfect. So they know from that and that's why (they cast me)? That's nice, I'm glad they're thinking of me. I'm glad they grew up and started making good movies, that's nice. I'll be part of that, please."

Catherine O'Hara on an entire generation thinking of her as a bad mother, thanks in large part to her role as forgetful mom Kate McAllister in Home Alone 23 years ago. She continues the trend with a pair of films this fall, A.C.O.D. and The Right Kind of Wrong. NED EHRBAR, METRO WORLD NEWS

High on life ... and marijuana

A$AP Rocky. New York's rapper of the moment tells Metro why fashion is his biggest influence, amid a haze of green

RICHARD PECKETT
scene@metronews.ca

"I'm not going to lie, drugs have influenced my life; I do smoke a lot of marijuana," slurs the guy who gave up dealing drugs two years ago.

Even over the telephone, it's unarguably clear in his smoke-soaked voice. At this point, the interview mimics those post-party dead-hour stoner chats where conversation falls somewhere between the profound and the prosaic.

"Smoking together, bonging together, that's where you meet some of your closest friends — it's like a token of friendship."

The combination of drug talk and toking has brought the hip hop artist to his open-your-mind optimum, continuing.

"It's an international language of love. There's no skin colour barriers or no shit like that; everything is one colour and that's purple baby —everything is motherf—ing purple."

A$AP Rocky's the ultimate hip hop protagonist in a world where he's "free to do whatever I want."

He bagged a $3 million dollar deal with Sony-RCA's subdivision Polo Grounds Music. The dollar sign in the crews' name is now justified. And his debut album Long.Live.A$AP went straight to number one on the Billboard 200.

But like demigods before him, Rocky's success is sewn in that murky mortal world where the rise and fall of celebrity is celebrated in equal measure — a place where Rocky's not master.

Days before this interview, the 24-year-old (real name Rakim Mayers) was charged with assault after allegedly slapping a female fan at a festival in Philadelphia. His management was cagey: Rocky's stoned. You'll agree there's a certain irony in his F—kin' Problems lyrics: "I love bad bitches, that's my f—kin' problem."

But as the Harlem-born rapper says, "You know, I'm not an angel, we all know that, but I do love good people."

Love, or rather lust, is another liberal endeavor for Rocky. He's a boundless shagger of priapic proportions, with groupies genuflecting before the altar of the hip hop collective A$AP Mob.

And "good" seems to refer to beautiful people: A$AP Rocky had a string of real and rumoured alliances with rapper Iggy Azalea, model Chanel Iman, who was at his side at the VMAs, and apparently Rihanna.

But he is in fact, referring to Raf Simons, creative director at Christian Dior. Rocky loves clothes (Alexander Wang cast him in the Spring 2013 promo of his own diffusion line T by Alexander Wang).

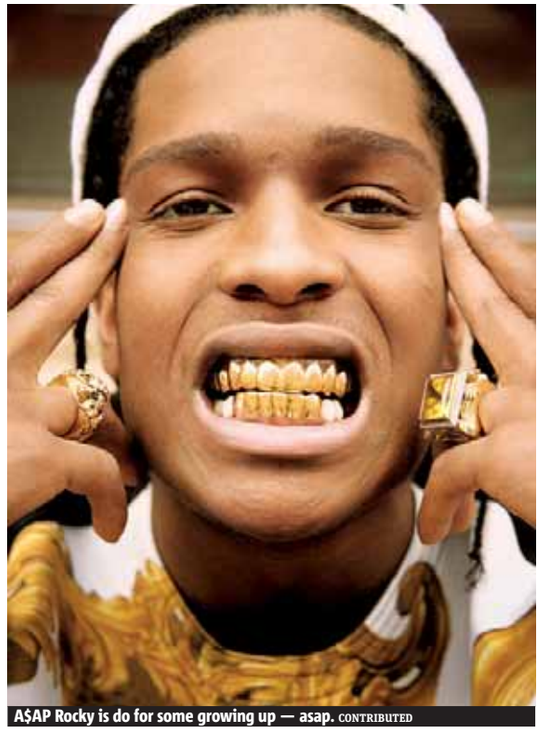
"I appreciate and admire high-end fashion and streetwear in the same way people love a sports team," he dozily enthuses.

In fact, the mention of fashion is enough to draw the rapper out of his green-induced slumber.

"Raf Simons is one of my biggest influences, he actually influences my music," he says.

The days of rappers name-checking those '90s household designers like Versace, Dolce & Gabbana and Tommy Hilfiger are over, but few could academically discuss the finer points of Simons, Rick Owens and Jeremy Scott. Amidst the fog of weed there is some sense in Rocky's mellow world.

But he'll need to reign in the nonsense if more converts are to join the masses in chanting: "Long.Live. A$AP."



A$AP Rocky is do for some growing up — asap. CONTRIBUTED

Janelle Monae's music is out of this world

New music. The R&B singer pays tribute to a pair of little known female pioneers on her new album

CHRIS JORDON
Metro World News

Though rising R&B star Janelle Monae sometimes seems absorbed in a futuristic world of androids and clones, she pays homage in song to two real-life female groundbreakers on her brand new album, The Electric Lady: astronaut Sally Ride and actress Dorothy Dandridge.

"The Electric Lady are the ladies who are out there in this world and should be respected," Monae says.

Dandridge in 1954 was the first African American to be nominated for an Academy Award for best actress, for her role in Carmen Jones. Monae extols the virtues of the actress in the jazzy Dorothy Dandridge Eyes.

Respect given

"I thought it was important to pay homage to her."

Janelle Monae
Speaking about astronaut Sally Ride

Ride's service on the crew of the space shuttle Challenger in 1983 made her the first American woman in space. Monae's rock 'n' roll ballad Sally Ride on The Electric Lady is a funky space oddity.

"She was definitely working as an astronaut during a time when women were not being accepted; she was the minority," Monae says of the late Ride. "I thought it was important to pay homage to her and tell her story and also she was in a same-sex relationship for a while … and women who were in same sex relationships would definitely be fired or discriminated against because of their sexual orientation."

Recognizing this is all part of the Electric Lady concept.

Despite paying tribute to those who reached the stratosphere, Janelle Monae's work remains down to earth. GETTY IMAGES

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

Office star Robinson has narrow escape from paradise

MELINDA TAUB
Metro World News

Comedian Craig Robinson learned an important lesson recently. Robinson was in the Bahamas to perform at the Atlantis resort. When he tried to board his return flight to the United States, authorities found he was carrying half a gram of marijuana and 18 ecstasy pills, and arrested him for drug possession, according to TMZ.

Robinson appeared before a magistrate in a shirt and shorts, where he got off relatively easy with a $1,000 fine and a promise to swiftly leave the country. Robinson reportedly told the judge that he'd brought the drugs with him from the United States and claimed he didn't know they were illegal in the Bahamas (as opposed to the U.S., where you can freely buy ecstasy at any WalMart?)

Anyway, it all worked out fine. The people of the United States got their Craig Robinson back. The U.S. will not have to go to war with the Bahamas to retrieve him. And the moral of this story is: don't bring ecstasy to the Bahamas, guys.

Less sex after 40? Oh Miley you don't have a clue

Miley Cyrus has been catching criticism for an attempt at a joke during her Today Show appearance earlier this week — "I heard when you turn 40, things start to go a little less sexual," she told Matt Lauer. "I heard that's when people don't have sex anymore." Suzanne Somers in particular has come out swinging, over-sharing about her sex life to disprove Cyrus' assertion. When pressed on the issue by E! News, Cyrus admits she doesn't actually know what she's talking about when it comes to sex after 40. "I don't know, I'm not 40 yet," she says. "I'll let you know how my sex life goes when I'm 40."

Unless you're eating way outside the box, odds are you'll be having some turkey this Thanksgiving.

Even with the sides that join in on the celebration, the big bird and all its trimmings is a pretty accommodating wine partner. It loves a medium-bodied chardonnay or richer sauvignon blanc, or if you prefer red, a juicy Beaujolais from France or a lightly rustic Spanish Rioja.

When it comes to a liquid partner, today's feature recipe has two strikes against it: It's a dessert, and a blend of vegetable and spice that are both notorious wine killers.

Port, Portugal's fortified gift to the world, has the body and thickness of flavour to stand up to this mouthful of eclecticism, while offering a sweetness level that complements, rather than competes.

Taylor's First Estate Reserve Port ($16.45 to $22.99) is a lighter-bodied version with balanced tannins and a rolling, ripe-fruited core of plum and blackcurrant that will play well with this cheesecake's main components while adding a palate warming finish to your holiday feast. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. Pumpkin Cheesecake steals turkey's shine

Thanksgiving. This dessert will make a beautiful centrepiece

ROSE REISMAN
For more, visit rosereisman.com or follow her on twitter @rosereisman

If you want a delicious yet lighter dessert for Thanksgiving or the upcoming holiday season, this is the perfect cheesecake to complete your meal.

This can be made a couple of days in advance or frozen for up to six weeks.

1. Preheat oven to 350 F. Spray a 9-inch springform pan with vegetable spray

2. Crust: Combine all ingredients until mixture comes together. Pat over bottom of baking dish.

3. In the bowl of a large food processor purée all ingredients for filling until smooth. Pour over top crust.

4. Topping: Place sour cream in a small plastic baggie. Snip off the end corner of the bag. Carefully draw approximately 8 straight lines through the top of the cheesecake. With a pointed knife or toothpick gently pull a line through the lines to make the pattern in the photo on this page.

5. Bake the Pumpkin Cheesecake for 40 minutes just until centre is still slightly loose. Chill before serving.

Ingredients

Crust
- 1 1/2 cups graham cracker crumbs
- 2 tbsp sugar
- 2 tbsp vegetable oil
- 2 tbsp water
- 1/4 tsp ground cinnamon

Filling
- 1 lb light cream cheese cut into cubes
- 2 eggs
- 3/4 cup canned pumpkin purée
- 1/2 cup low fat sour cream
- 2/3 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1 tsp ground cinnamon
- 1/4 tsp ginger powder
- 3 tbsp all purpose flour

Topping
- 1/4 cup low fat sour cream

Clutch Taylor 'itching to get back out there'

Internal competition within the B.C. Lions receiving corps is only one of many reasons why Courtney Taylor is eager to get back into the lineup.

Taylor missed the last game with a pectoral injury but took part in every practice this week in the lead-up to Friday's road game against the Calgary Stampeders.

Can't let guys like Nick Moore, Emmanuel Arceneaux and Shawn Gore hog all the attention in the passing game.

"I'm a receiver, man. One thing about a receiver ... we have our own personal goals," said Taylor on Wednesday. "So those guys got up on me last week. So yeah, I'm itching to get back out there right now."

His return gives the Lions their full complement of receivers as they head into this West Division showdown with the Stampeders.

Taylor suffered the injury making a spectacular diving catch against Winnipeg. Fighting for position with a defender and having to sprawl out before hitting the ground, not many would've given it a second thought if the ball somehow popped loose for an incomplete pass.

That one catch against the struggling Blue Bombers was just another example of how reliable Taylor has become.

"Courtney over the last month and a half has been a clutch guy, made clutch plays," said head coach Mike Benevides.

Vancouver remains San Jose's shark bait

NHL. Canucks drop 11th straight to surging West Coast rivals

CAM TUCKER
cam.tucker@metronews.ca

The Vancouver Canucks' streak of futility against the San Jose Sharks continued Thursday.

In a game that featured some juicy storylines for an October match-up, the Canucks fell behind the red-hot Sharks and couldn't catch up in a 4-1 loss at Rogers Arena.

That's 11 straight losses to the Sharks, including exhibition, regular season and, of course, that four-game sweep in last year's playoffs.

If the Canucks and Sharks have indeed built up a West Coast rivalry in recent years, it has been decidedly lopsided in favour of San Jose.

Not even Burnaby boy Mike Santorelli — who has become a terrific story as someone trying to revive their NHL career after struggling to maintain full-time employment over the past two years — could pull his team out of this one.

On Thursday

Sharks	Canucks

He scored his fourth of the season — off a deflection on a Ryan Stanton point shot — in the second period and leads the Canucks in goals.

Beyond that, one team was distinguishably better than the other.

The Sharks have started the season with four straight wins, including two decisive victories against the Canucks.

San Jose got goals from Marc-Edouard Vlasic and Matt Pelech in the first period, Patrick Marleau in the second and Brent Burns in the third.

Verlander pitches Tigers into ALCS

MLB. Former Cy Young winner flirts with no-hitter in continuing dominance over Athletics in the playoffs

Justin Verlander of the Tigers pitched eight scoreless innings on Thursday night.
THEARON W. HENDERSON/GETTY IMAGES

Justin Verlander pitched another Game 5 gem in Oakland while carrying a no-hit bid into the seventh inning, and Miguel Cabrera homered to lead the Detroit Tigers past the Athletics 3-0 Thursday night and back into the AL championship series.

Joaquin Benoit retired Seth Smith on a fly ball with two on in the ninth to close out the deciding game of their division series. The Tigers became the first team to reach the ALCS in three straight years since the New York Yankees from 1998-2001.

Game 1 is Saturday in Boston. The Tigers went 4-3 against the Red Sox this year. They have never faced each other in the post-season.

Verlander gave up a clean, two-out single to Yoenis Cespedes in the seventh to end his chance at the third no-hitter in post-season history. The hit hardly fazed him, however.

On a night he allowed only three baserunners, Verlander made it a post-season-record 30 straight scoreless innings against one team since Coco Crisp hit a leadoff home run for the A's in Game 1 last October.

Just 364 days earlier, Verlander tossed a four-hit, 6-0 masterpiece in Game 5 in this very ballpark, a 122-pitch performance for his first career post-season shutout and complete game.

He nearly matched that with a spectacular 111-pitch outing in a rematch of his thrilling pitcher's duel with rookie Sonny Gray five days earlier in Game 2.

Aching slugger Cabrera hit a two-run homer in the fourth off with a drive into the left-field seats for his first homer since Sept. 17 and just his third extra-base hit in 99 at-bats. That ended a 20-inning scoreless streak by the Tigers at the Coliseum.

Why are you so angry? Whatever the reason, you need to get over it because if you don't it will spoil your weekend. You just tell yourself that who or what upset you isn't worth the trouble.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
You may find it difficult to get your own way today but maybe that's not a bad thing. Sometimes it pays to let other people take decisions for you and the planets suggest this could be one such occasion.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
Identify your priorities and focus on them to the exclusion of everything else. You may have plenty of physical and mental energy at your disposal, thanks to the Sun in Libra, but it will go fast if you waste it.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
Listen to your instincts and do what they tell you, even if it puts you at odds with people you work with. Best of all, do something a bit outrageous — it will get you talked about.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
Someone you are fond of will act in a manner that annoys you. Do you speak up about it? Only you can decide but remember, real friends are those who tell the unvarnished truth.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
If you come on too strong with someone today, your efforts could be self-defeating. Some respond to threats, others to flattery. Get them mixed up and you may get no response.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
What seemed so important earlier in the week does not seem so important now and probably won't mean a thing to you over the weekend. That's good. What else is there in your life you can safely ignore?

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
Health, wealth and happiness can and will be yours between now and the start of next week. The right opportunities will arrive at the right time. All you have to do is take advantage.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
You may want to shut yourself away and avoid the world at large but if you do, you may miss out on a fun social event. It will be even more fun if you are there, so stop moping.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Opportunities for happiness and success are around you but you will miss them unless you raise your eyes for a moment from whatever mundane task it is you are lost in.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
There will be major upheavals in your working life over the next few days but if you stay calm, you will come through unscathed. Not only that but you may find yourself moving swiftly up the ladder of success.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
There are so opportunities coming your way and if you take advantage of even a few of them, you'll have a major breakthrough. Don't look back and wish you had been more adventurous. SALLY BROMPTON
